
ANSWER KEY

Unit 10A

- 1 They're going to an exhibition about dirt (students may mention it's called filth and it's about history, culture and attitudes). It's free, it's supposed to be good (students may also mention that they might learn something).
- 2 It's in the science museum.
- 3 It's near the central station. Turn right with back to the station. Then it's second or third on the left. Just off (very close) to the main road – New Street. (You may ask students to draw a rough map.)

D

- 1 or something
- 2 What's it about
- 3 a bit weird
- 4 It's supposed to be
- 5 in that case
- 6 I'm terrible with
- 7 have your back to
- 8 just off it
- 9 can't miss it
- 10 Shall we say

VIDEO SCRIPT

Ava Do you fancy going to an exhibition or something?
Paul Maybe. What's on?
Ava Well, there's this exhibition called 'Filth' at the City of Science museum.
Paul OK. What's it about?
Ava It's about the history of dirt.
Paul Dirt?
Ava You know, like what makes something dirty – soil, ketchup – dirt!
Paul OK. It sounds a bit weird. What is it? Looking at dirty washing? I have a lot of that!
Ava No. It's about all kinds of things. It's about how we think about dirt – about how our attitudes change in history and how different cultures think about what is dirty. And then it's also about the science of bacteria and cleaning things. You might learn something!
Paul Ha. Ha. very funny.
Ava Seriously. It's supposed to be very good.
Paul OK. Where's it on again?
Ava The City of Science museum.
Paul When's it on?
Ava It finishes this week – they close late tomorrow – I think at nine.
Paul Oh, OK. How much is it?
Ava It's free!
Paul Ah. Well, in that case, let's go. Nothing to lose! Do English people say that?
Ava I think so. So, shall we go tomorrow evening? I could meet you there.
Paul Where is it exactly?
Ava You know New Street?
Paul No. I'm terrible with street names.
Ava But you know the central station?
Paul Yeah.
Ava Well, that's on New Street!
Paul Oh, right!
Ava So, if you have your back to the station, you turn right down New Street and the entrance to the museum is just off it, on the left, about 20 metres from the station. It's the second or third on the left. I can't remember the name. It's signposted, though. You can't miss it. It's right after the Santander bank.
Paul Right? I thought you said left?
Ava No. Right after. Exactly after.
Paul Oh, yes.
Paul So, what time?
Ava Shall we say six?
Paul Can it be earlier?
Ava Sorry. I don't finish my class till 5.30.
Paul OK. Six then.
Ava Great!