Diana How was your journey?
Paulo Don't ask! So ask me what happened!
Diana You said don't ask!
Paulo It's an expression. They say it in English – they want you to ask.
Diana I know. I'm just joking. Start again. So, how was your journey?
Paulo Don't ask!
Diana Oh, I'm sorry. What happened?
Paulo Well, I took the coach first. There was a baby screaming for 18 hours and I couldn't sleep and it was terrible.

Diana That IS bad.
Paulo Then, before I got my flight I went to look round the city but I left my bag in the bus station in this left luggage place, but then I got lost and I came back late and the place was closed. No-one could get my bag.

Diana Seriously?
Paulo Yes. I was lucky because I had my money, passport and air ticket in a small bag with me.

Diana So you left your bag?
Paulo Yes. Then, when I went through security I forgot I still had my Swiss army penknife so, of course, they took that. I was losing everything!

Diana Is this actually true?
Paulo Yeah, this really happened to me one time.
Diana That's terrible!
Paulo I haven't finished.
Diana Go on then.
Paulo So I got back. It was really cold and I'm only wearing shorts, t-shirt and sandals.

Diana This can't be true.
Paulo No, it is. And I had to take the train back to my town so I got a cold and the day after when I woke up I also had an infection in my eye – I could hardly see.

Diana That's awful.
Paulo I know. But it's kind of funny now I remember. Anyway, let's change.
Hi Diana. Lovely to see you!

Diana Hi. Good to be here.
Paulo How was your journey?
Diana Don't ask!
Paulo Oh really? What happened?
Diana Well, when I was walking to the station it poured down and I got soaked. So, I was sitting in my wet clothes all day.

Paulo Oh dear. I'll make you some tea.
Diana Thank you. And then there was a big storm when we took off, so it was very bumpy and very scary.

Paulo Oh, that's horrible. That's like when I went to Ireland last year. The flight was horrible. I thought we were going to die.

Diana Yes – I don't want to go through that again.
Paulo I know. I hate flying.
Diana So do I.
