A fable of Aesop – The bee and Jupiter

A queen bee went to visit Jupiter, the king of the gods. She took with her some delicious honey. Jupiter was delighted with her present. He promised to give her anything she wanted. The queen bee said, 'Please give me a sting so that I can sting and kill any people who try to take my honey.'

Jupiter was not pleased. He liked the people of the world. He didn't want to make anything that would hurt them. But he had made a promise and he could not say no. So he said, 'I will give you a sting. But if you use it, your sting will stay in the wound that you make and you yourself will die.'

Moral: Evil wishes, like chickens, come home to roost.

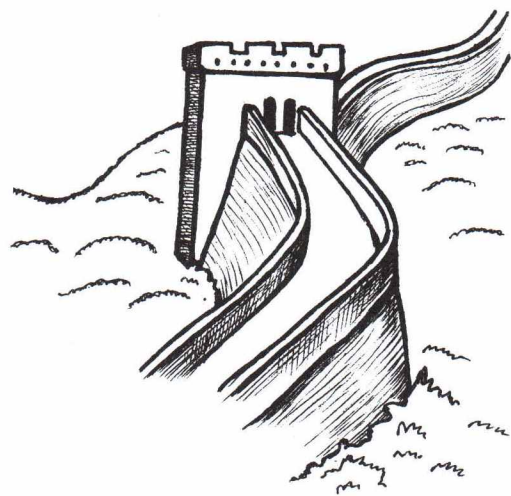

- If bad things happen to other people, make sure bad things don't happen to you, too. ☐
- If you want bad things to happen to other people, bad things will happen to you, too. ☐
- If you do bad things to other people, you will get into trouble. ☐

Canada

Canada is the second largest country in the world (Russia is the largest). The Pacific Ocean is on the west side of Canada. The Atlantic Ocean is on the east side. From the west coast to the east coast it is 5000 kilometres. It takes eight hours to fly across in a plane.

The Arctic Ocean is to the north of Canada. The northern part of the Canadian mainland is inside the Arctic Circle. In the winter, a lot of the country is covered in snow. Most of the big cities are on the Great Lakes or along the Saint Lawrence river. It is a very large river and big ships can travel from the Atlantic Ocean to the cities on the Great Lakes.

Most people in Canada speak English, but one fifth of Canadians speak French as their first language. This is because many French people went to live in Canada in the past.

The ant and the dove

An ant went to the bank of a river to drink, but fell into the water. A dove sitting on a tree by the water saw the ant. She picked a leaf from the tree and dropped it into the water. The ant climbed onto the leaf and floated safely to the bank.

Later, a bird catcher came and stood under the tree. The dove sat quietly in the branches. The bird catcher began to get his trap ready to catch the dove. The ant saw what he was doing and stung him in the foot. In pain, the bird catcher threw down his trap, and the loud noise made the dove fly away.

Moral: One good turn deserves another.

When you need help, you should expect someone to help you. ☐

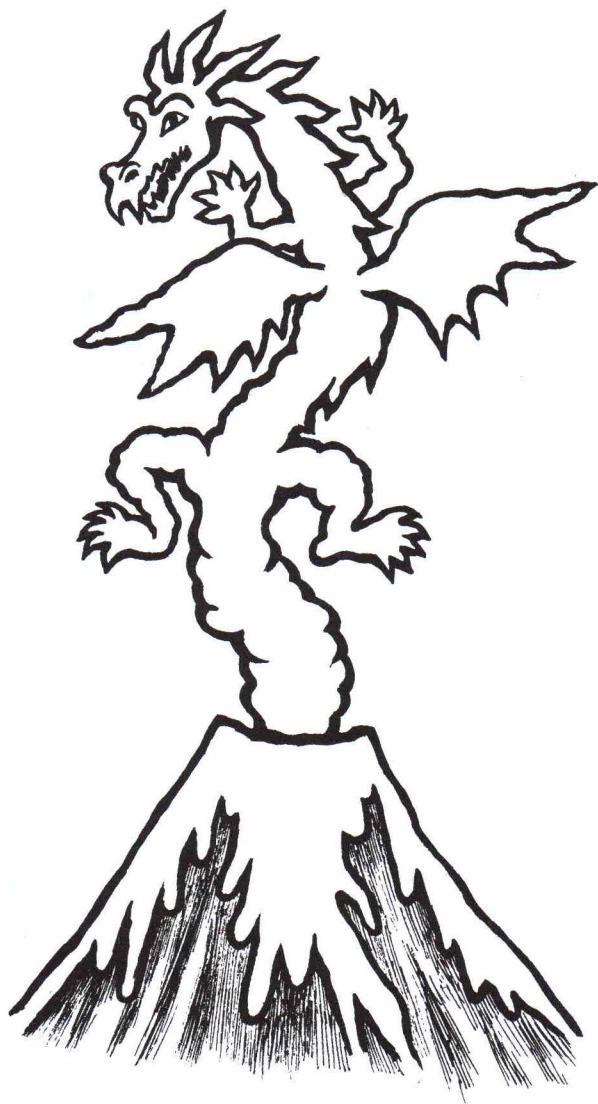

If someone helps you, you should be ready to help the person another time. ☐

If someone helps you once, you should expect the person to help you again. ☐

Eruption

In the warm spring sunlight
mountain flowers blow,
grasses shiver in the breeze
and sparkling rivers flow.
But on the smoking mountain
no birds sing,
no mouse, no long-eared rabbit hops,
there's no living thing.
The beetles, frogs and lizards
have left the mountain side.
Bears and foxes, wolves and deer
have run away to hide.
In distant caves they're waiting
with fear in their hearts.
The Earth lies still, just waiting, too...
And then the trembling starts.
With roaring power, the mountain
explodes into the air
like a fire-breathing dragon
rising from its lair.

The Chinese Emperor's tomb

'What was the best thing you saw in China, Uncle Jim?' Mark asked.

'It was the tomb of an emperor who lived more than 2000 years ago,' replied Uncle Jim. 'When he was buried, more than six thousand soldiers were buried with him.'

'They didn't bury real soldiers, did they?' asked Mark.

'No, they're models,' Uncle Jim told him. 'But they are the same size as real people and they all have different faces, just like a real army. There are horses, too. Look, here's a picture of them.'

'Are they the same size as real horses?' Mark asked.

Uncle Jim said that they were.

Mark was puzzled. 'Why are they there?' he asked.

'Because the people who buried the emperor believed that he would need an army to look after him in his next life,' Uncle Jim told him.

'It sounds amazing, Uncle Jim,' said Mark with a sigh. 'I would love to see it one day.'

Sloths

Sloths live in the rainforests of Central and South America. They are half to three quarters of a metre long. They are covered with short hair and they have large eyes and a short nose.

They live in the trees where they spend their lives hanging upside-down. Their long curved claws help them to hold onto the branches. They eat the leaves in the trees and they sleep in the trees during the day.

The first sloths were on the Earth 10,000 years ago. These giant animals were enormous. They were as large as an elephant but they lived on the ground. In English, 'slothful' is used to describe someone who is lazy and likes to sleep all day.
