Melbourne is in the south-east of Australia. It's on the coast. The climate is very good. It's nice and warm. There are lots of different people there from different places, so the food is good. It's a nice place to live.

Toruń is in Poland – about 200 kilometres north-west of the capital, Warsaw. It's quite small. The population is about 200,000 people. There's a university, so lots of students. Famous because Copernicus was born there.

Cleveland is in the USA. It's east of New York. It's very industrial – lots of big factories and car plants. The climate isn't great. It gets very cold in the winter. There's a lot of crime too. It can be quite dangerous in places.
